

Holiday Greetings 2014

Jim and Linda by a Large Ceiba in Barranquilla, Colombia

We continue to enjoy living on the Left Coast, while birding a lot and spending time with family. We have upped our quota of birding trips to at least three a year. We're not getting any younger... We went to

- New Caledonia and New Zealand
 - Santa Marta area of Colombia
 - Cauca Valley in Colombia
 - Mexico: Sayulita and San Blas
 - As well as California, Arizona and Texas
- We both celebrated a triple prime birthday (2*5*7) and watched grandkids grow cuter all the time.

Monsieur Koko, a fairly tame Kagu in New Caledonia, an endemic bird.

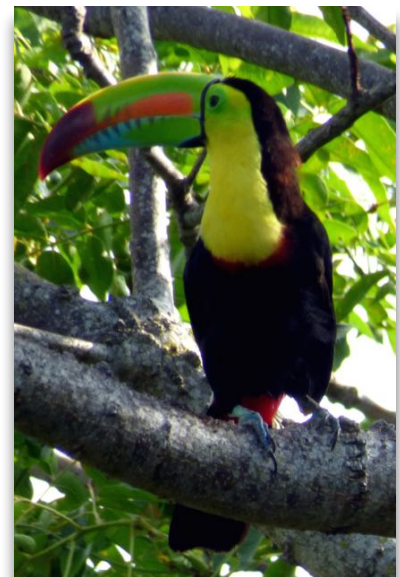

Buller's Albatross in New Zealand

Cooper's Hawk, Patagonia, AZ

Hooded Warbler, Sea Rim State Park, Texas

Keel-billed Toucan, Colombia

The Hargrove Clan plus Marilyn Willats, August 2014

Male and Female (?) Grasshoppers in Colombia.

Bat Falcon, a favorite photo subject, Colombia. Another 5-star sighting of this bird.

Holiday Greetings to all of you, best wishes for a happy and prosperous 2015. The more detailed ANNUAL REPORT will be available at hargrove.org before the end of February, 2015.
